Jack Benny
February 14th (1894–1974) was a comedian, vaudeville performer, and film actor, and one of the early stars of radio and television. Benny was known for his comic timing and his ability to get laughs with either a pregnant pause or a single expression, such as his signature exasperated “Well!” He had many running gags that delighted his audiences, such as his skinflint persona, his perpetual age of 39, his atonal violin playing, and his worn out Maxwell automobile that Benny insisted was still good for a few more miles.

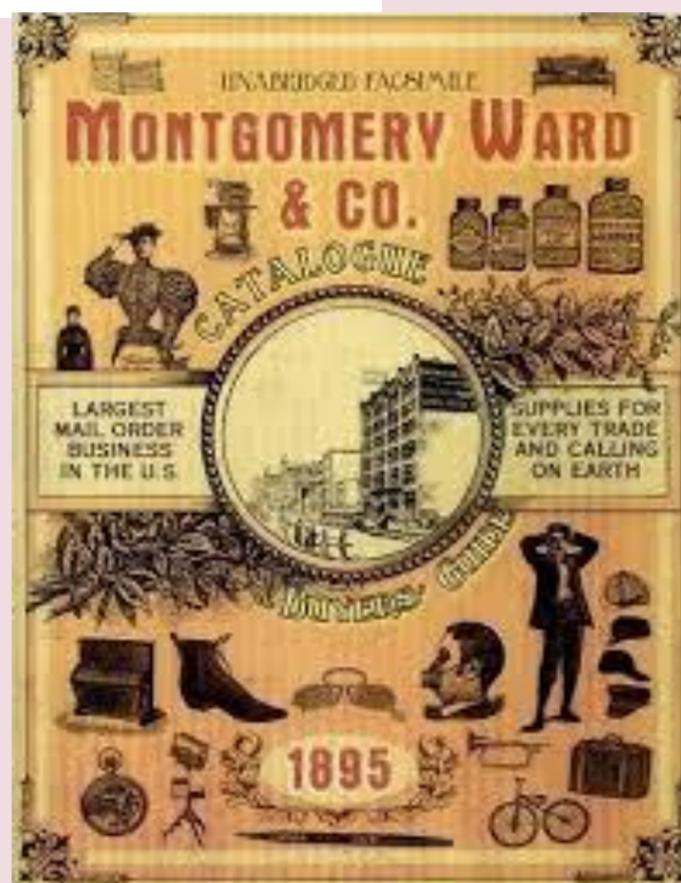

LEAP YEAR

February 29th

“I don’t deserve this award, but I have arthritis and I don’t deserve that either.”
~ Jack Benny

Montgomery Ward’s first catalog was a single sheet of paper showing merchandise for sale and ordering instructions. Within two decades, it grew into a 540-page illustrated book.

Reader's Digest Month –

February is Reader's Digest month! Reader's Digest may be one of the most popular magazines in the world, with millions of readers in over 70 countries and with editions translated into over 20 languages. This magazine was started by a man named DeWitt Wallace, who conceived the idea while recovering from shrapnel wounds suffered in World War I. He launched the first issue in February 1922. Wallace's idea was simple. He would gather his favorite articles from a wide variety of magazines and publish them together in one journal. Sometimes he even rewrote and shortened articles that were too long. Wallace hoped that his little magazine would earn him $5,000 a year, and by 1929, it was generating $900,000 a year. Read a copy this month!
